

Supervisory Practices Regarding Depository Institutions And Borrowers Affected By Severe Storms and Flooding in North Dakota

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) recognizes the serious impact of the recent severe storms and flooding on the customers and operations of financial institutions and will provide regulatory assistance to institutions subject to its supervision. These initiatives are being taken to provide regulatory relief and facilitate recovery. The FDIC encourages depository institutions in the affected disaster areas to meet the financial service needs of their communities.

Lending. Bankers should work constructively with borrowers in community affect a by the severe storms and flooding. The FDIC realizes that the effects of natural coasts on local businesses and individuals are often transitory, and that prudent effects to consider a supposition of the erms on existing loans in affected areas should not be subject to examiner diticism suppositions impacted by the disaster, the FDIC will take into consideration the undecade circumstances they face. The FDIC recognizes that forts to take with provers in communities under stress can be consistent with safe and source white practices as well as in the public interest.

Investments. Bankers should monitor municipal so trities are an ansaffected by the disaster. The FDIC realizes that local government projects are negative impacted. Appropriate monitoring and prudent efforts to stabilize successful as are encouraged.

Reporting Requirements. FDIC-superved institution affected by the severe storms and flooding should notify their FDIC regional fice if they pect a delay in filing their Reports of Income and Condition (Call Reports) or other peorts. The FDIC will take into consideration any causes beyond the control of a point institution affected by the severe storms and pect a delay in filing their Reports of Income and Condition (Call Reports) or other peorts. The FDIC will take into consideration any causes beyond the control of a point institution affected by the severe storms and pect a delay in filing their Reports of Income and Condition (Call Reports) or other peorts. The FDIC will take into consideration any causes beyond the control of a point institution affected by the severe storms and pect a delay in filing their Reports of Income and Condition (Call Reports) or other peorts. The FDIC will take into consideration any causes beyond the control of a point institution and the control

Publishing Requirements. The Food unput and sthat the damage caused by the severe storms and flooding the affect coupliant with publishing and other requirements for branch closings, relocation and apporations under various laws and regulations. Banks that have disaster-related difficult in complying with any publishing or other requirements should contact their regular office.

Consume aws. Red right consumer loans, Regulation Z provides consumers an option to waive or mother than the thre day rescission period when a "bona fide personal financial emergency" ex. To exercise this option, the consumer must provide the lender with a statement describe the emergency in accordance with the regulation.

Temporary Banking Facilities. The Kansas City Regional Office will expedite any request to operate temporary bank facilities by an institution whose offices have been damaged or that desires to provide more convenient availability of services to those affected by the severe storms and flooding. In most cases, a telephone notice to the regional office will suffice initially, and necessary written notification can be submitted later.